DiSilva Fruit Launches 2026 Summer Citrus Program

The import season will run from June through October, with mandarins, navels and lemons available in a variety of pack styles.

DiSilva Fruit says its summer import citrus season will run from June to October and feature citrus sourced from trusted grower partners throughout the Southern Hemisphere, including navels from South Africa and Chile; mandarins from Peru, Uruguay, South Africa and Chile; and lemons from Argentina, Chile and Mexico.

The company says that as shoppers continue looking for ways to stretch their grocery budgets without sacrificing quality or nutrition, citrus remains one of the best values in the produce department, offering versatility, freshness and everyday affordability. DiSilva Fruit says its Bright Bounty label will play a major role in its seasonal program, offering both organic and conventional citrus packed in eye-catching, consumer-friendly packaging designed to stand out at retail.
